Biggest liveable hole in the GK999 server's biggest hole's owners interviewed.

The owners with the storage system. From left to right: URBANCHAOSE, EveThePuffy. Both are Admins on the GK999 server.

Opening Words

The biggest hole probably in history made on our server today, sporting a gigantic storage system and fish tank, houses the 3 owners that co-own The Hole together; URBANCHAOSE, EveThePuffy, and Epyc_Crafter. The former two came on for an interview about their creation deep under the surface.

Q: What tips do you have for newbie builders?
A: Just keep building. Google and YT are good too.

Q: Why did you decide to build the hole?
A: We had lots of claim blocks, we also decided to build down instead of up.

Q: Tell me more about The Hole.
A: It's a giant hole, deep in the ground. Largest liveable hole on the server.

Q: What was used to make The Hole?
A: Picks. Manual Digging.

Q: What do you plan to put in it?
A: Well, it currently has a storage system and fish tank. We are working on a super smelter at the moment.

Q: What makes The Hole so unique?
A: It's a giant hole, I guess. It's also the server biggest storage system on the server.

Q: How old is The Hole?
A: A few weeks old.

The GK999 server now has an official newspaper.

The first edition of the paper was published today. It will contain server news, Important information about upcoming events, and etcetera.

The players will be able to ask for an advertisement in the newspaper on a first-come-first-serve basis. This will help promote trade, GabeChanHy, the writer says.

Players will also be able to ask for an interview if they find something that has been built is nice and should be showcased for all the players to see.

(No ads this week, it's the first)

E.g:
 is selling 50 diamonds! Contact him to name a price and for negotiations!

Ads can be customized to some extent if writer is told.
